ward V. Rowe, one of the Brooklyn d Jurors, who wanted to bring in mer. Tacted in a perfectly proper many and concerning that Mr. Gaynor may say concerning that Mr. Gaynor may say concerning that Mr. Gaynor may say concerning that Mr. Rhodes or Mr. Rowe think about my conduct. If they are willing to talk outside the Grand Jury room that hat is no reason why I should. From other sources it was learned that Mr. Callaghan had charge of the Grand Jury for only one day, during the absence of Assistant District-Actorney U. S. Bloorer—that was the day of the trouble.

Mayor Boody has not yet carried out Grand Jurors, who wanted to bring in thirteen members of the Board of Aldermen, and would have done so but for Mr. Ridgway's interpretation of the law, ceive legal evidence, and in order to tell us what legal evidenceais I suppose Mr. Ridgway considers he ought to be present. The only objection we made was the one and for the reason stated.

'Tersonally, I would like to see the minutes taken before the Grand Jury in this particular case fully published. It would oa lot of good, and would prove beyond a doubt that our censure of the Mayor and the Aldermen was move than justified. It would also serve smore than justified. "Personally, I would like to see the minutes taken before the Grand Jury in this particular case fully published. It would do a lot of good, and would prove beyond a doubt that our censure of the Mayor and the Aldermen was more than justified. It would also serve to correct an erroneous opinion which some people seem to posses concerning the points at issue.

"They imagine it is a mere question."

some people seem to posses concerning the points at issue.

They imagine it is a mere question of warfare between two rival companies. Here is the one fact that ought to stare everybody in the face, just as it presented itself to the Grand Jury.

The Union Street Railroad Company was prevented by the Board of Aldermen from competing for a valuable franchise, to run over certain streets. Secret meetings were held in the Mayor's office, to which that Company had not been invited, and the franchise was given to another corporation.

"It is immaterial whether the Union Street Company would have paid one million dollars or only one dollar more for the franchise. The fact remains that a fraud was perpetrated upon the city by excluding that Company.

"Mayor Boody became a party to the fraud when he signed the resolution giving away the franchise. He knew all the facts in the case and should have sent it back.

"While I am in favor of seeing the the facts in the case and seeing the sent it back.

"While I am in favor of seeing the minutes of this transaction made public, and having as much light shed upon the matter as possible. I think it is a bad precedent to establish, and I doubt bad precedent to establish, and I doubt even if such an application is made that Judge Moore will grant it. I believe he has power to do so, as the Grand Jury is part of his court.

"What transpires in the Grand Jury room should be held sacred. Witnesses go there now and speak plainty, because it is very secrecy, who would not attend at all if they thought their testimony was going to be published."

During the interview Mr. Rowe was careful to mention no names. Mr. Hubert G. Rhodes, the foreman of the June Grand Jury, however, was not so particular.

June Grand Jury, however, was not so particular.

"Yes," he said, "Mr. Callaghan insisted upon pushing a line of inquiry that we did not want to follow. His questions did not bear on the facts, and when Lawyer Gaynor came in to testify, one of the Grand Jurors proposed that Mr. Callaghan he excluded from the Grand Jury room.

"Hefore I could put the motion Mr. Callaghan jumped up and said:

"Hold on; I have a right to be here and I'r; soing to stay. Come down to Judge Bore's office right away and we will sea the point."

"I was unwilling to go to Judge Moore on such a trivial question, but the other Grand Jurors considered Mr. Callaghan an obstacle and insisted on the question. We then went before the Judge and were letured upon our conduct. Afterwards, however, I saw Judge Moore himself and explained matters. He said he was very glad I had done so, as it put a different complexion on the case sitogether."

Mr. Rhodes would also like to see the minutes of the proceedings made public, but does not know how it can be accomplished in any way.

deliberations after Judge Moore had informed them of Mr. Callaghan's right to be there. Lawyer Gaynor began his testimony and answered every question put to him by the jurors, making a full statement of what he knew of the franchise deal.

The nature of this testimony, of course, cannot now be obtained, but on its conclusion there was quite a scene between the two lawyers.

The Assistant District-Autorney started in to put a lot more questions, took of them of an irritating nature, all of which Lawyer Gaynor absolutely refused to answer.

The line surveyed runs from the southern boundary of Mexico to the northern boundary of Holivia, and is 4,000 miles in length! It connects the railway system of North America with that of South America. It is said that a feasible route has been found for the entire distance, with no grade greater than 4 per cent.

It is further said that the engineer who was in charge of the survey through Colombia reports that for many miles the line runs through a mining region so rich that the material dug out for the cuts of the road would contain enough gold and silver to pay for the construction of the road over that section.
